

Google public index

Diane Tennant, House of Cards, The Virginian-Pilot, Daily Break p. E1 (11 December 1995; TAG 9512090048).

Unique-phrase search, captured 9 October 2026. Google's public index date of the Virginia Tech electronic copy: 22 February 2018.

Search

"Translating the cards into German, French, Dutch, Spanish and Italian"

Lookup URL:

<https://www.google.com/search?q=%22Translating+the+cards+into+German%2C+French%2C+Dutch%2C+Spanish+and+Italian%22>
Same phrase restricted to the Virginia Tech host: <https://www.google.com/search?q=site%3Ascholar.lib.vt.edu+%22Translating+the+cards+into+German%2C+French%2C+Dutch%2C+Spanish+and+Italian%22>

Google result

HOUSE OF CARDS

scholar.lib.vt.edu › VA-news › VA-Pilot › issues › 1995 › vp951211 › 12090048.htm

NORFOLK COMPANY DEBUTS "STAR WARS" GAME THAT PITS THE REBEL ALLIANCE VS. THE EMPIRE. Diane Tennant, The Virginian-Pilot, 11 December 1995.

Making the cards is also complex. Translating the cards into German, French, Dutch, Spanish and Italian may be tricky, because some of the quotes were a little garbled when the movies were first translated into those languages. To keep it consistent for foreign fans, the cards will have to bear the garbled quotes. A bigger problem might be the German language itself, which requires a good many more words and letters to get a point across than does English, and space, while vast in the universe, is limited on a playing card.

Indexed URL: <https://scholar.lib.vt.edu/VA-news/VA-Pilot/issues/1995/vp951211/12090048.htm>

Google index date: 22 February 2018. Live status 9 October 2026: HTTP 410 Gone. Wayback Machine had no capture of the article URL.

This PDF is the preserved copy of Google's public index of the Virginia Tech electronic copy for that unique-phrase search. The live lookup URL still resolves the citation.

Companion wiki file: File:Virginian_Pilot_House_of_Cards_Google_index_2018-02-22.txt on wiki.swccg.com.